DETAILED ACTION

Title

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Abstract

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "comprises" should be avoided.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the

DETAILED ACTION

Title

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Abstract

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "comprises" should be avoided.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 is vague and indefinite because it is unclear of how is the identifying step related to the ATM or what is its functional relationship relating to the screen for displaying the options.

5. Claim 1 is also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 is vague and indefinite because it is unclear of what is a modifying step.

6. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 15 is vague and indefinite because it is unclear of how is the identifying step related to the SST and what is it being modified by the modifying step?

7. Dependent Claims are rejected for incorporating the defects from the parent claim by dependency.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3624

9. Claims 1-8 and 15-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Monaghan (US 2002/0065775).

Monaghan discloses a method and apparatus substantially claimed including:

A method comprising: identifying an ATM (or SST) which has a screen for displaying options for withdrawing cash and a touch input mechanism for receiving user commands; and modifying said ATM (or SST) to enable it to receive from a wireless telephone user commands for dispensing cash (abstract; [009], [0010], [0015], [0028], [0038]);

wherein said transceiver is further adapted to transmit signals directly to said wireless telephone (abstract; [009], [0010], [0015], [0028], [0038]).

wherein said signals implement local wireless communication (abstract; [009], [0010], [0015], [0028], [0038]);

wherein said ATM (or SST) is connected to a network for communication therebetween, and wherein said modifying step includes providing a connection between said network and said wireless telephone (abstract; [009], [0010], [0015], [0028], [0038]);

wherein said ATM (or SST) is connected to a network for communication therebetween.

However, Monaghan fails to show a retrofitting or modifying step to convert a wired system (or apparatus) to a wireless system.

The examiner takes Official Notice that retrofitting of an older or existing system with a known technology to control (e.g. control equipment, control systems, control apparatus, or software) and improve the performance of an existing system is old and well known in the instrumental controls and communications business practice as a convenient way for upgrading and modifying of an existing system. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skills in the art at the time of the invention to have included the steps of using a wireless communication protocol as taught by Monaghan for allowing users, with any wireless communication device (e.g. PDAs, cellular phones, laptops, etc.), to communicate to the ATMs or SSTs for transmitting financial transaction data packets.

Art Unit: 3624

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-8 and 15-29 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
